Scott: Barrett? me: yo
Scott: I'm going ot be forwarding you guys an email exchange btwn myself and the owner of http://nonprofitawareness.blogspot.com/.
me: cool, what went down?
Scott: first and foremost she's going to be attending tomorrow's IRC meeting.
Scott: She had some questions, but all in all, I think she'll be a valuable asset in terms project design and implementation.
me: that's great, thanks for setting that up, looking at her site now
Scott: just want to give an advance apology should you feel that I said something I shouldn't have said or misrepresented PPM.
Scott: also, no problem.
me: you're qualified to speak for PM
Scott: email sent, and cool man
Scott: I know you're super busy and this isn't my place, but it may be worthwhile to send out an email to a select group of individuals thanking them for their hard work so far and encouraging them to maintain as high a level of contribution as possible.
Scott: I only say this since there was a few week period there when we seemed to be running on all cylinders but the past couple of weeks have been more lackluster. i.e. last week's meeting was only 3 people for a large period of time.
Scott: I think everyone could use a motivational boost from their leader :)
